Disability Sheffield Centre for Independent Living Limited is a company limited by guarantee, registered in Cardiff No. 4639160 and is a registered Charity No. 1112712

Throughout the document we will refer to 'disabled people' which includes people who have long-term physical, mental, intellectual or sensory impairments and health conditions.

We believe that every disabled person has the right to participate fully in society and to determine how they live their lives, including having access to employment opportunities. Employment can provide a person with a sense of purpose; it helps people to gain confidence, develop social skills, and introduces different situations and people to our experiences. For disabled people, there can be extra barriers to work, created either by our impairments, or by difficulties in finding accessible employment and staying in work. We can also face discrimination in less obvious ways than inaccessible buildings. In this factsheet we aim to direct you to information under the following colour-coded headings:-

Employment Rights

Information about your employment rights under the Equality Act including reasonable adjustments.

Benefit Entitlement

How to access your nearest advice centre for welfare rights advice and self-help guides and factsheets about disability and benefit entitlement

Permitted Work and Voluntary Work

Information to help those who would like to work or volunteer whilst claiming benefits due to a disability.

JobCentreplus and Funding Support

How to contact Jobcentre Plus, adjustments to access benefits and access to funding and support through Access to Work .

Employment Support

Local organisations that provide support and assistance to disabled people looking for work and remaining in work.

Advice on Employment Issues

Who to contact for independent, impartial and confidential advice on employment issues.

Useful Websites

Links to a selection of national disability organisations that provide employment specific information, services and resources.

Employment Rights

Disabled workers share the same employment rights as other workers. There are special provisions for disabled people under the Disability Discrimination Act (DDA) 1995 which was replaced by the Equality Act in 2010.

Disability is one of the ‘protected characteristics’ in the Equality Act alongside age, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion and belief, sex and sexual orientation.

The definition of disability under the Equality Act is;-

“a physical or mental impairment that has a ‘substantial’ and ‘long-term’ negative effect on your ability to do normal daily activities.”

To look at what this means in more detail please find:-

The Duty to Make Reasonable Adjustments

The duty to make reasonable adjustments is a cornerstone of the Equality Act and requires employers to take positive steps to ensure that disabled people can access and progress in employment. This goes beyond simply avoiding treating disabled workers, job applicants and potential job applicants unfavourably and means taking additional steps to which non-disabled workers and applicants are not entitled.

The legislation requires an employer to take reasonable steps to provide an ‘auxiliary aid’. An auxiliary aid is something which provides support or assistance to a disabled person. It can include provision of a specialist piece of equipment such as an adapted keyboard or text to speech software. Auxiliary aids include auxiliary services; for example, provision of a sign language interpreter or a support worker for a disabled worker or more flexibility around working times. Reasonable adjustments can also include redeployment to a different kind of work if necessary.

Information must also be provided in an accessible format for example providing letters, training materials or recruitment forms in Braille or on audio tape

The duty to make reasonable adjustments applies in recruitment and during all stages of employment, including dismissal. The duty relates to all disabled workers of an employer and to any disabled applicant for employment. The duty to make reasonable adjustments applies to employers of all sizes, but the question of what is reasonable may vary according to the circumstances of the employer.

The Equality and Human Rights Commission website has information about disabled people’s employment rights under the Equality Act, about reasonable adjustments, Access to Work, recruitment and promotion, performance, training and development, health and safety in the workplace, and leaving work.

The GOV.UK website has information about the Equality Act, about reasonable adjustments, redundancy, and who to go to if you feel you have been discriminated against.

The Disability Law Service has useful information on Employment Rights under the Equality Act.

Advice Guide has information about Disability Discrimination and rights at work.

Disability Rights UK have a number of work related factsheets on their website.

The Advisory, Conciliation and Arbitration Service ( ACAS ) provides information and support regarding disability and discrimination in employment - please follow this link

National voluntary organisations may offer information and support depending on your impairment. For example, the Royal National Institute for the Blind has a summary of employment rights under the Equality Act, including who has rights under the DDA, what discrimination is, and how to proceed if you have been discriminated against

Disclosure of Your Disability

An employer recruiting staff may make limited enquiries about your health or disability.

You can only be asked about your health or disability:-

- to help decide if you can carry out a task that is an essential part of the work
- to help find out if you can take part in an interview
- to help decide if the interviewers need to make reasonable adjustments for you in a selection process
- to help monitoring
- if they want to increase the number of disabled people they employ
- if they need to know for the purposes of national security checks

You may be asked whether you have a health condition or disability on an application form or in an interview. You need to think about whether the question is one that is allowed to be asked at that stage of recruitment.

Disability Rights UK has produced a factsheet 'Telling People You're Disabled' - a guide for students - but the principles still apply if you are unsure about telling an employer about your disability and the best time to do so.

A Guide to Disclosure is available from the Association for Higher education Access & Disability.

Disability Confident

Disability Confident is a government campaign designed to support employers to remove barriers, increase understanding and ensure that disabled people have the opportunities to fulfil their potential and realise their aspirations. This new initiative has replaced the Two Tick scheme. It aims to increase the number of employers offering employment opportunities for disabled people, and to increase the number of people with disabilities in employment

Further information is available on the GOV.UK website

Big Ambitions is a Community Interest Company (CIC) that provides support programmes to help people both gain and retain work alongside supporting businesses to adopt healthy workplace practices and support Disability Confident Employers. Their Employer Champion Service aims to work with businesses to increase the number of people with disabilities in employment and ensure that they provide an inclusive and fair working environment.

Disability Sheffield offers training and consultancy which can help businesses by developing an inclusive workplace. As a disabled people's user led organisation we know just how beneficial employing disabled people can be. Our experienced staff can support you in creating a diverse, knowledgeable, and confident team. You can visit our training page here.

Business Disability Forum

Business Disability Forum is the leading business membership organisation in disability inclusion. Their mission is to advise, support and encourage businesses to become more disability-smart as well as influencing policymakers by representing the voice of disabled employees.

The Disability Smart Management Tools have been developed by the Business Disability Forum for organisations to assess how well they are performing when it comes to disability inclusion. This includes both an online Disability Smart Assessment and a more in-depth Disability Smart Audit Service.

Mindful Employer

Mindful Employer is a national organisation providing guidance to employers about supporting mental wellbeing at work

Mindful Employer also provides specialist Mental Health First Aid \(MHFA\) training for employers. This is achieved through a two-day course accredited by the Royal Society of Public Health which aims to train employers on recognising poor mental health in employees and helping them to find the support they need.

Benefit Entitlement

As the benefits system is constantly changing, we do not want to add information to this factsheet which will soon be out of date, or which risks being wrong. For this reason, we would recommend that for any benefits queries you contact one of the agencies below.

You can easily find your nearest advice centre on the Citizens Advice Sheffield website. Click on 'Get Help' and then 'Get Started' and enter your postcode. Click on 'Help Yourself' for online free advice and self-help resources

Citizens Advice Sheffield offices offers a Freephone helpline on 0808 278 7820, Monday to Friday, 10am to 4pm (except Bank Holidays)

Permitted Work and Voluntary Work

You may work, including voluntary work, while claiming health or disability-related benefits.

If you are thinking of starting paid work of 16 hours or more a week, you should seek advice about benefit entitlement from an advice agency. You could ask for a 'better-off' calculation to find out if you will be financially better off in work.

Disability Rights UK has a series of factsheets with detailed information, including how much permitted work can be done, which benefits it applies to, the work allowance for universal credit and volunteering.

Following a number of enquiries about housing benefit applications we wish to highlight that if you are getting employment support allowance, incapacity benefit, severe disability allowance or income support paid as a result of illness, any permitted work earnings you receive are disregarded when calculating housing benefit.

Voluntary work can help to build your confidence, get experience in a workplace, and feel a sense of pride and achievement.

You can find more information about volunteering in Sheffield at the Volunteer Centre website and the very comprehensive Do-it website.

Gov.UK has information about volunteer placements, rights and expenses

JobCentreplus and Funding Support

Jobcentre Plus/DWP

Jobcentre Plus is responsible for the national network of job centres. These give advice at every stage of your search for a job and make sure you know which benefits or allowances you're entitled to claim. They can also support you if you're concerned about the impact of your disability on your search for work.

Adjustments to Help You Access Benefits and Pensions

The Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) must make adjustments for you if your disability or health condition makes it difficult to:

- Use the phone
- Use the internet
- Read letters
- Fill in forms
- Attend face-to-face meetings
- Understand complicated information to manage your own affairs

To emphasise this message the government has published information on how you can get help if you have difficulties claiming benefits and pensions and pensions because of a disability or long term health condition.

If you require an adjustment and you feel that a DWP service or information is not accessible, you can make a complaint.

Access to Work

If you want to work but have a disability that makes working a problem you may be able to get help from the Access to Work scheme. This provides practical advice to help you overcome these problems. It can also give you grants towards extra employment costs. The kind of support you might need because of a health condition or disability can include:

- Aids and equipment in the workplace
- Altering your workplace and adapting equipment to make it easier for you to use
- Money towards any extra travel costs to and from work, or help adapting your vehicle
- An interpreter or other support at a job interview
- Other practical help at work, such as a job coach or a sign-language interpreter.

Employment Support

Experience and research shows that disabled people can find it difficult to find the support they need when thinking about employment. Help to find work is available locally including help with Job search, CV's, interview techniques, applying for jobs, training and apprenticeships, work experience and in-work support.

The Sheffield Directory has a page listing organisations in the city that provide employment support including some specifically for disabled people.

<https://www.sheffielddirectory.org.uk/adults/learning-work-and-volunteering/learning-work-and-volunteering/employment-support/>

These include one of the main providers.

Opportunity Sheffield

Opportunity Sheffield is the Council's employment and skills service aiming to create employment opportunities and break down barriers to employment, particularly for those furthest from the labour market. It is made up of programmes which help employed and unemployed people advance their careers through new jobs, apprenticeships, work placements, courses and other training options. It also hosts a range of regular events, including Jobs Fairs, where potential candidates, employees and/or employers can meet each other.

One of their employment and skills programmes is called Sheffield's Working. This employment support service helps guide vulnerable and marginalised adults towards and into sustained employment, and promotes the benefits of a more diverse workforce. Programmes are delivered by local partners in the community, voluntary and private sectors.

"You can stay up to date with Sheffield's Working events via their Twitter page @shef_working."
